By Parentingbookmark Mom This is a great resource for anyone trying to navigate the health care system and dealing with long term care. Another great resource is a website called Facility Resource Group dot org. They provide little known government funded entitlement benefits for skilled care in California. Through this program you can protect your assets rather than spending them down to qualify for aid or spending your hard earned resources to pay for skilled care. The government will provide for skilled care and this website will assist you with the process. Its a great resource! 2 of 2 people found the following review helpful. Excellent policy analysis of palliative care By Frederick J. Fox MD Insightful review of end-of-life care in US and policy perspectives on what needs to be accomplished. Especially sensitive to caregiver needs.

Just a few generations ago, serious illness, like hazardous weather, arrived with little warning, and people either lived through it or died. In this important, convincing, and long-overdue call for health care reform, Joanne Lynn demonstrates that our current health system, like our concepts of health and disease, developed at a time when life was mostly short, serious illnesses and disabilities were common at every age, and dying was quick. Today, most Americans live a long life, with the disabilities and discomforts of progressive chronic illness appearing only during the final chapters of their life stories. Sick to Death and Not Going to Take It Anymore! maintains that health care and community services are not set up to meet the needs of the large number of people who face a prolonged period of progressive illness and disability before death. Lynn offers what she calls an "owner's manual for the health care system," which lays out facts, concepts, strategies, and action plans for genuine reform and gives the reader new ways to interpret information creatively, imagine innovative possibilities, and take steps to implement them.

"Joanne Lynn is a national treasure - the most articulate, courageous, and scientifically-grounded voice in our nation for the improvement of health care for people approaching the end of life. For the public and professionals alike, her work provides motivation and sound guidance for building the care system we need, a system that we do not yet, by any means, have." - Donald M. Berwick, M.D., M.P.P., President and CEO, The Institute for Healthcare Improvement
